

Reading Sample Task 1 – Paragraph Ordering

Put the paragraphs in the correct order – assign a number 1-6 in the box next to each paragraph.

- A. In the United States specifically, peaches are very popular. People eat millions of them each year, and some places are especially well known for them. For example, Georgia is famous for its juicy peaches, while California produces the largest number of peaches.

- B. Because of this, peaches are used in many foods. They are often in cakes and fruit salads. Many people serve them with yogurt or ice cream. They are very tasty fruits that everyone should try!

- C. Peaches are a popular fruit with soft skin. They are juicy and are usually orange or red in color. Because of their long history and taste, peaches have become an important fruit around the world. They are connected to farming and summer culture in many different countries.

- D. Today, peaches grow in many warm regions of the world. China produces the most peaches, followed by Spain, Greece, and the United States. They grow in places with warm summers and mild winters.

- E. They have a long history. In China, people were eating them more than 4,000 years ago. From China, they traveled to Persia, Europe, and later the Americas.

- F. Most of the peaches grown in California are freestone peaches. In contrast, the ones in Georgia are usually clingstone peaches. Nevertheless, both types can be used for eating and cooking.